Cleveland at his Home.

From the Philadelphia TIMES.

It is nearly always an easy matter to trace a man's career where nearly everyone you meet knows all about his incomings and outgoing. Here the policeman on the corner was appointed by him when Mayor. Further up the street the lawyers, doctors, preachers and tradesmen speak of him as "Cleve" or "Grove." All say to his credit that his phenomenal advance in public favor has not changed him a whit; that he is still the same quiet, unassuming citizen now as when he was a lawyer seeking clients. The old uncle, L. F. Allen, who gave him good advice, but very little else, when he reached here some thirty years ago on his way to Cleveland, Ohio, still lives here and is now past four-score years. He persuaded his nephew to stop at this point and helped him to get a chance to study law by working mighty hard for it. He is an eccentric man, of strict business habits, and doesn't seem to take much interest in politics. He really knows less of the life of his relative than almost any man of repute you meet.

GROVER CLEVELAND'S ROMANCE.

Grover Cleveland came of a somewhat singular family. All his ancestors were strong people, but turning to the church for a living they were always poor. The city is full of reminiscences of his fight for a place here, but the story of his boyhood days must be gathered in another locality. Probably, not three people here know why he never married; perhaps none do. The mishap that led him to tred the wine-press of life alone was a painful one; but it left the sting before he came here. Ever since his residence in Buffalo he has lived with his law books and in his profession. Although he is reputed to be a good, genial companion, fond of life and the world, he has shunned society and lived for his mother and sisters, who needed his help. Probably more preachers were reared out of his family than any other in the country. They all taught the doctrines of the Presbyterian Church for a small price and died poor. Mr. Cleveland's father left some ten children, about his only available assets when he died. Hence it went out that he was too poor to marry until so well grounded in his bachelor ways that he could not be tempted from them by the comeliest girl in the land. There are no traditions that he ever courted a lass. Yet it is true that he did and that the picture of that one still remains by his side. It is true that he was and, as the world goes, still he is poor. It was not until a few years ago that he felt able to pay back the money he borrowed to bring him West in 1855. He only got his legal education by a pretty tough fight with adversity and it took him four years of drudgery in the office of Rogers & Bowen before he was addmitted to practice.

AS A LAWYER.

I went into the spacious offices this morning, but not one of the old firm was there. Only one is alive and he is in Europe. Mr. Cleveland has had four or five law partnerships with the strong men of this city, and all say he was a valuable business companion. His career as a lawyer is well defined in this region and his reputation well established. It seems queer that the general agreement has not reflected itself outside of Western New York. Mr. Milburn, a bright young man, now a partner in the law firm where the present Governor studied, said to me this morning:

"It amuses me to hear this talk about Mr. Cleveland's lack of ability. He is the strongest character I ever knew without a national reputation. He is a fine lawyer. He is incapable of wilful wrong and nothing on earth cruld sweep him from his conviction of duty. That he is thoroughly honest cannot be questioned and without being what might be called a brilliant man he has always been regarded as an able and safe one in every relation of life.

This terse summing up of the nominee's position at home is simply duplicated by the Judges and lawyers with whom he has mingled. Among the laymen he seems to stand equally high. Republicans and Democrats alike speak of him as a man of the strongest character and highest attainments. Mr. James N. Mathews, who edits the Express, the leading Republican paper in the city by the lake, speaks for this sentiment as follows:

"I know of no Democrat better equipped for the position for which he has been named than Grover Cleveland. He is an able, honest and incorruptible man. He is self-reliant and has excellent judgment. I shall do all I can honestly and honorably to defeat his election, for I am earnestly for Mr. Blaine, But when people speak of him as an obscure man it is but fair to say that he has long stood in the front rank with the very leaders of thought and action in this part of New York."

SHERIFF CLEVELAND.

Grover Cleveland's habits of life seem to have been as simple as the general conduct of the man has been unassuming. He dwelt in a quiet boarding house, and when its mistress got a well to-do son-in-law and quit business he used to take his Sunday morning breakfast at the Terrapin Lunch, a plain restaurant, where probably a terrepin was never seen. Old Major Randall, of the Lake Shore Railroad, was his companion. He died soon after Cleveland was made Governor. It was his oft-expressed ambition to live to see "Grove," as he called him, President. In 1863 he became Assistant District Attorney and carried the burden of the office for three years, to be beaten for District Attorney at the close of his term by Lyman K. Boss, his nearest friend. They afterward became law partners. He was made Sheriff of this county by an accident. In fact, he never had an office that he was not forced into. In 1869 David Williams, superintendent of the Lake Shore Railroad, wanted to run for Congress. This district was close and he wouldn't make the effort with any of the aspirants for the Sheriffalty. It was the most important office to be filled and there was a bitter contest for it. The leaders got together and decided that Cleveland must run to help Williams. There wasn't much chance of an election, but they insisted that he must make the sacrifice for the party. He was then regarded as a good lawyer, with a good practice, but he became the candidate and not only helped Williams, but squeezed in by a hundred votes. During his term as Sheriff the office was well administered and when the term was finished Mr. Cleveland went back to his law business.

HIS FINANCIAL START.

The fees of the Sheriff's office were large and the income from it gave him his first financial start. He then made money at the law and saved something. His reputation is not that of a money-getter and money-saver. Had he been ambitious in this direction he could and would have been a rich man. In 1881 he was forced to be a candidate for Mayor. A popular revolt against the methods that were robbing the city swept him into this office. The Council was against him, but he vetoed every obnoxious measure it passed and his assaults upon the Aldermen were so vigorous that they did not dare to pass them over his objections.

A FOE OF ALL JOBS.

Here his veto of the street-cleaning job is regarded as the real beginning of his public career. Soon after he came into office the Council voted to award the street-cleaning contract for five years to George Talbot, a local politician of power, at $422,500 a year. There were several lower bids by thoroughly responsible men. Mayor Cleveland vetoed the award and severely condemned the attempted waste of the people's money. The contract was subsequently awarded to the lowest bidder, at $109,000. The amount saved on this and an item for a sewer during the first six months of his administration was nearly $1,000,000. These acts brought him into prominence and started him towards his present place. It was on account of his fearless fight in spite of large odds against public plunderers that he was pushed and elected by these people Governor. It is because they know him to be perfectly honest and incorruptible that to-night all men, regardless of differing political affiliations, are re joicing over his successes. Though his law office and his bachelor quarters over there are silent, both are saluted as the abode of a man who has done well on a small beginning. If the record of his life is soon told, his own people point to it with pride and go bond to the country that he will do even better in the future. This is the tenor of all the speeches and of the talk of the people.

FIXING A FLY-SCREEN.

Man Again Proves His Superiority Over Woman in Mechanics.

He had a doubtful expression on his phiz as he entered a hardware store, and he spoke about the stove trade, and several other matters before he finally said:

"I think it is time to put up my fly-screen doors."

"Certainly."

"You have springs, I suppose."

"Yes, sir."

"Have you a spring which I can adjust?"

"We have. Here is one which a boy ten years old can put on. The time for intricate springs has passed, and simplicity is the rule."

"Let's see. I wonder if I can put that on?".

"Of course you can. All you want are a screw-driver and three screws. Here—this end goes on the door—that end on the casing. See? When you have it on, take this wire and turn here. When the spring has the right force drop those slots—thus. See! Why, a woman could put one of those springs on with her eyes shut—price 15 cents.

Bones hadn't lost any of his doubtful expression as he started out. He walked home, feeling of his ear, and trying to remember just what the dealer said, and in half an hour he was at work on the door. The dealer had held the upper end of the spring to the northwest, while his door opened to the northeast. He sat down and thought and thought, and finally decided to try it, any how Mrs. Bones came out and helped him, and the spring was finally put on.

After the spring was on Bones turned and turned. The spring stiffened and the door flew open.

"That's just like you," she said as he jumped back. "What on earth do we want with a spring to keep the door open?"

"That's so—that's so. Let's take it off and turn it end for end."

This was tried, but it was no good, and Mrs. Bones cried out:

"You might have known it! It takes a man with brains to put on a spring!"

"And I've got more of 'em right in my heels than your whole relations have in their heads!"

"Then put on that spring!"

"I'm going to when I get ready. There's no particular hurry as I can see."

"Maybe it's tired," she sneered.

"And maybe you had better attend to your mopping."

She went in and Bones tried that spring six different ways. Then he went off and borrowed a gimlet, and inch auger, a crowbar, a jackscrew and a pair of pinchers, and he tried six other ways. He turned the old thing until the tension lifted up one end of the house, and he looked from the front gate to the alley fence for the ratchet, but the door had no spring to it. He put the spring on diagonally, crosswise, lengthwise, top for bottom and bottom for top, and about 4 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Bones came out and found him pounding it with the crowbar, while the door had been wrenched apart and heaved into the alley.

"I said you couldn't do it," she remarked.

"Couldn't do what?"

"Put on that spring."

"Who's tried to put on that spring? We don't need any door there, and I've taken it away. It isn't at all likely that we will see three flies, but if a few do come around we aint going to murder 'em. Spring! I was just fooling you. That was a burglar alarm, and the reason I didn't put it on was because we didn't have anything to burglarize. Even if we had I'd let 'em come. A burglar can't live unless he has a fair show.

The power developed by the explosion of a ton of dynamite is equal to 15,665 foot-tons. One ton of nitro-glycerine similarly exploded will exert a power of 65,452 tons, and one pound of blasting gelatine similarly exploded 71,050 tons.

A Complexionist.

Strolling up-town recently a reporter for the New York Mail and Express had his attention attracted by the sign "complexionist" which was hanging over the door of an inoffensiue-looking dwelling house. Wondering what under the sun a complexionist might be, he wandered in to satisfy his curiosity. A French lady of medium height and with charming conversational powers received him in a small room fitted up in a style that might indicate at first sight either a drug store or a hair-dresser's saloon.

"A complexionist," said the lady, in answer to the reporter's interrogation, "is one who makes a study of the human skin and takes charge of the customer's complexion."

"But surely there are not many who——"

"Oh, yes; there are hundreds of the fair sex who come here during the gay season to be made up or have the skin treated with delicate washes to prevent the bad effects of gas, heat, and late hours. But young ladies are not the only ones treated; men—young and old—are often found within these walls."

"What is your usual mode of treatment?"

"That depends on the complexion; if it is merely to be preserved, we advise a little careful dieting and bathing in elder-flower water. Not a particle of fat must me taken, as it injures the polish of the skin. Here is a prescription that will clean the complexion in a very short time: A tablespoonful of sulphur taken every other morning for a week, then omitted for three mornings and taken again. A mixture of powdered brimstone or diluded glycerine should be rubbed on the face at night and washed off in the morning with soap and water in which there is a little ammonia. Washing the face in spirits of camphor, glycerine, and ammonia is also very good, and various other methods are resorted to for this end."

How a Home was Ruined.

A Husband's Drunken Spree and its Terrible Results.

A dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., tells this sad story: A Mrs. Fairchild, once a beautiful and accomplished woman of Savannah, has just died a miserable death in one of Atlanta's haunts of sin. The story which attaches itself to this woman is peculiarly sad. Three years ago she was a happy wife in a cosy home in Savannah. Her husband, young, handsome, educated, had a lucrative and responsible position with the Central Railroad in that city, and possessed the respect and esteem of all who knew him. About Christmas of 1881, while on a drunken spree, he shot a young man, who subsequently died. He was arrested, placed in jail and tried. The case against him was a stubborn one, and it required his home and everything else he could accumulate to save his neck. His wife gave everything cheerfully, and her grief, which was manifested during the trial, had great influence with the judge and jury. The trial resulted in a sentence of five year's imprisonment. The parting between husband and wife when he was taken to the penitentiary was deeply affecting. With a hope of securing a mitigation of the sentence, she went to Atlanta, and fell a victim to a well-known officer, who professed his ability to aid her. She took a downward road, took to drink, and in a few weeks was a confirmed drunkard. This step was followed by others, until she found herself utterly disgraced and sank to the lowest depths of infamy. She died very suddenly, without having been sick a moment. Her husband was at Lowe's camp, on the Chattahoochee river, and when Mr. Lowe heard of the death of the convict's wife he caused two guards to bring him to the city. The man knew nothing of the downfall of his wife until he found her dead in a house of sin. His grief was painful to witness, and as he stood beside the coffin he raved like a madman. The kindness of the lessees for whom he was working enabled him to send the body to Savannah for burial. He has two children liying in that city, but it will be three years before Fairchild can go home to them.

The Editor was "In."

But the Man Who Wanted Him Didn't Stay Long.

"Is the editor in?" asked a wry-faced man, who stood six feet five inches in his socks, of the office boy of a Sunday newspaper.

"I do not know," said the boy. "I'll ask him." He was gone about ten minutes, when he returned, smiling blandly, and said: "I guess he's in. He's in if you are the man he thinks you are. Is your name Smithers?"

"Yes. My name is Smithers, and I reckon he won't be in, the cowardly puppy, when he knows Jake Smithers is after him."

"So you are Smithers, are you?" said the boy.

"Yes, I'm Smithers. The same Smithers that the gum started editor called a ham in this morning's paper. I've come to clean out the shop and thrash that editor till he won't know himself from a stuck pig. I reckon the editor ain't in, now, is he?"

"Oh, yes! I'll show you up to his room in a minute. He told me to ask you if your name was Smithers, and if it was, to show you up. When I left the room, he had two revolvers, a ten-pound weight and a sword lying on his desk, and he told me to show you the door to his room right away, and get behind the base burner for safety as soon as you went in. Right this way, sir. The editor's in, and he's anxious to see you."

"Well, you tell the editor that I said he might go to Chicago, if he wants to. He can kiss my foot. I hain't got no time to fool away on him." And Smithers hurried to catch the train.

The Housekeeper.

A Few Seasonable and Useful Hints That are Worthy of a Trial.

Milk porridge is very nourishing if it is thickened with arrow-root instead of flour.

The odor of onions can be effectually removed from the frying-pan by boiling a little wood ashes and water in it, or if you have no ashes, potash or soda will do as a substitute.

Now is a good time to prepare mint vinegar. Take pepper or spearmint leaves; wash them, and put them into a large-mouth bottle; fill the bottle up with vinegar; have a cork that fits closely. Let this stand for three weeks, then pour it through a muslin cloth into a clean bottle, and it is ready for use.

Never use soap in the water with which you clean the looking-glass; it is almost impossible to polish the glass if soap is used.

The following receipt for making 'cold cream' is said to be excellent: To one ounce of glycerine allow ten drops of carbolic acid; add one ounce of rose water.

Do not let boiled potatoes stand in the water a moment after they are done; drain it all off; cover the kettle; some very painstaking cooks remove the potatoes from the kettle, and, after laying a towel on a tin plate, put the potatoes in it, cover it, and put them in the oven to dry, leaving the oven door open.

A dainty dish to serve with cake as the last course at dinner, is made by stewing prunes of the best quality until they are tender, and the pits will slip out easily; stew them in as little water as possible. Beat the whites of eggs to a stiff froth; add almost as much sugar as if you were making frosting; drain the water from the prunes, mix them with the eggs and sugar, and set in the oven to harden. Serve cold, with cake and coffee.

A novel way to serve lettuce is, after washing and looking over carefully, to pour a dressing over it made by frying out the fat from a slice of ham, cutting the ham in small pieces before frying; when the fat is at the boiling point add a cup of vinegar, let it boil for a minute or two, then pour over the lettuce; garnish with cold boiled eggs cut in rings.

An entree of great merit is made by dipping slices of ripe tomatoes into a batter made of flour, sweet milk, and an egg, and then frying them a delicate brown.

Cauliflower salad is an excellent entree. Boil the cauliflower in salted water; when tender, which will be in about half an hour, drain every drop of water from it, let it become cold, then arrange it in a salad bowl with a rich mayonnaise dressing poured over it. It may be garnished with small rings of pickled beets or with slices of pickled cucumbers; and, by the way, it is a good plan to pickle a large jar of cucumbers so that you can have them to use for a garnish, and to chop and add to the dressing served with boiled fish.

The Men With the Pig.

A few days ago two men, who were afterward found to be Detroiters, arrived in a town about fifty miles to the west of this, leading a pig. It was perhaps big enough and heavy enough to be called a hog, but they termed it a pig, and as they turned it over to the care of the landlord at whose inn they proposed to rest for the night one of the men explained:

'Be awful careful with that pig. He's a daisy—a new breed just from Scotland. We've sold him to a farmer out here for $50, and we don't want anything to happen to him.'

The landlord locked the pig up and then began to think and cogitate and suspect. When the strangers had gone to bed, he called in some of the boys and said:

'I've twigged the racket; them two fellows are sharpers, and that's a guessing pig. To-morrow they will give you a chance to guess at his weight at ten cents a guess, and you'll be cleaned out—only you won't! As the fellows sleep we will weigh their pig and beat their game.'

Nobody slept until the pig was taken over to the scales and weighed. He pulled down 170 pounds to the hair, and the villagers went home and hunted up their nickels and dreamed of pigs and scales and sharpers through the remainder of the night.

Next morning the pig was led around in front, and, before starting off on his journey, one of the owners remarked to the assembled crowd:

'Gentlemen, I'm going to weigh this pig directly. Maybe some of you would like to guess on his weight? I'll take all guesses at ten cents each, and whoever hits it gets fifty cents.'

This provoked a large and selected stock of winks, and smiles, but no one walked up until the pig man said that any one person could guess as many times as he cared to, provided a dime accompanied each guess. Then a rush set in. Three or four merchants put up fifty guesses each. A Justice of the Peace took thirty. A lawyer said about twenty would do for him. Before there was any let up in the guessing about 600 had been registered and paid for. Every soul of 'em guessed at 170 pounds. It was curious what unanimity there was in the guessing, but the pig men didn't seem to notice it. When all had been given a chance the pig was led to the scales, and lo! his weight was exactly 174 pounds!

'You see, gentlemen,' explained the spokesman, 'while this animal only weighs 170 pounds along about 11 o'clock at night, we feed him about five pounds of corn meal in the morning before weighing! You forgot to take the matter into consideration!'

Then somebody kicked the landlord, and he kicked the Justice, and the Justice kicked a merchant, and when the pig men looked back from a distant hill the whole town was out kicking itself and throwing empty wallets into the river.—Detroit Free Press.

Why He Felt Mean.

The Experience of a Man who was Traveling in Florida.

Says a correspondent: If I ever go into a new locality again I will study up my geography better than I did this time, for my ignorance got me into a most uncomfortable position. As the the boat neared Sanford I was standing with others on the deck, when a very pretty young lady came up to me and, with a sweet smile on her face, looked up to mine with a pair of lovely eyes and asked: 'Are you going to kiss me, sir?' If some one had offered to lend me $10 I could not have been more surprised and hardly knowing what to say and in order to gain a little time, I gasped out: 'Pardon, miss, what did you ask?' I felt that she knew I heard her, but she said sweetly, 'Are you going to kiss me to-night?' There was no misunderstanding her this time. I heard her, and so did others, and I felt the blood rushing into my face, and I stammered out, 'I would like to accommodate you, miss, I would truly, but I have a wife and thirteen small children on board with me, and if my wife would see me kissing you—' 'Kissing me, you hateful old thing! who asked you to kiss me?' 'You did,' I yelled; 'you asked me twice!' 'You old fool, I asked you if you were going to Kissime—Kissime City to-night; don't you know anything?' and off she went, and if ever anybody felt meaner than I did I would like to exchange photographs with him.

Democratic National Ticket.

FOR PRESIDENT,

GROVER CLEVELAND,

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

THOMAS A. HENDRICKS,

OF INDIANA.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS-AT-LARGE

of Bucks county.

LIEUTENANT GREELY and the other survivors of the Arctic colony, who were sent to the North pole regions, a few winters ago, on an exploring expedition, were rescued on the 22nd of June under difficult circumstances and brought to St. John's, N. F. Seventeen of the explorers became victims of the immense sufferings which the party experienced and the rescuing party under commander Schley reached the seven survivors at the very point of death. They are doing well at present, but are very weak and suffering from nervous prostration. Their removal from St. John's to Portland, Maine, is contemplated.

BLAINE AND LOGAN have sent their respective letters of acceptance to Republican headquarters and of course they are masterly productions, at least as far as the number of words are concerned. Otherwise they are are "little in much" and what little there is are contradictions and arraignments of their own party.

EX-SPEAKER RANDALL is entirely satisfied with the result of the Chicago convention. He says he only wants to be returned to congress to aid President Cleveland in carrying out the contemplated reforms in the general government.

HENRY C. LEA, a Philadelpdia republican and member of the Committee of One Hundred, has declared for Cleveland and Hendricks. He say's Blaine's record forbids him supporting the republican ticket.

EX-SENATOR WALLACE is spoken of as chairman of the National Committee. No better selection could be made for that position, as the gentleman possesses the necessary ability and energy.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR CHAUNCEY F. BLACK is revising a work called "The Life and Public Services of Grover Clevelaud and Thomas A. Hendricks."

MRS. L. C. CASSIDY, the wife of the Attorney General, died of peritonitis on Friday evening, July 18th, at the family's country seat at Washington Lane and County Line, near Philadelphia.

THE following are some of the most forcible sentences used by George William Curtis of Harper's Weekly, in an article setting forth the reasons why Cleveland should be elected:

The nomination of Grover Cleveland defines sharply the actual issue of the Presidential election of this year. He is a man whose absolute official integrity has never been questioned, who has no laborous and doubtful explanations to undertake and who is universally known as the Governor of New York elected by an unprecedented majority which was not partisan and represented both the votes and the consent of an enormous body of Republicans and who as the Chief Executive of the State has steadily withstood the blandishments and the threats of the worst elements of his party and has justly earned the reputation of a couragous, independent and efficient friend and promoter of administrative reform. His name has become that of the especial representative among our public men of integrity, purity and economy of administration which are the objects of the most intelligent and patriotic citizens.

The argument that in an election it is not a man but a party that is supported and that the Democratic party is less to be trusted than the Republican is futile at a time when the Republican party has nominated a candidate whom a great body of the most conscientious Republicans cannot support. No honest Republican would sustain his party for such a reason and the honest Republicans who propose to vote for Mr. Blaine will do so because they do not believe, as the protesting Republicans do believe, that he made his official action subserve a personal advantage. Nothing is more hopeless than an attempt to persuade such Republicans to sustain their party by voting for an unworthy candidate. Should they help to reward such a candidate by conferring upon him the highest official honor in the world they could not reasonably expect the nomination of a worthier candidate at the next election, and they could not consistently oppose the election of any candidate whom their party might select. The time to defeat unfit nominations is when they are made, not next time. The nomination of Grover Cleveland is due not so much to the preference of his party as to the general demand of the country for a candidacy which stands for precisely the qualities and services which are associated with his name.

It is to be remembered that Harper's Weekly is one of the most influential Republican periodicals and has supported every Republican ticket for the last twenty years.

Monopoly and Labor.

The speech recently delivered in the House by ex-Governor Curtin, on the steady growth of land monopoly in this country, and its blighting effects upon the prosperity of labor, must attract very general and profound attention. It is not a campaign document freighted with clap-trap to appeal to partisan or other prejudices, but it is an eloquent review of the withering effect of land monopoly in other governments, and an impressive appeal to this country for the preservation of our public lands for the homes of actual settlers.

It will startle many even of the more intelligent voters of the country to learn that in France with a population of 37,000,000, there are 10,000,000 of property-owners, in other words, 10,000,000 of homes, and that in the United States, with 55,000,000 of population, there are less than 4,500,000 property-owners. Another equally startling fact brought out by ex-Governor Curtin in the close relation the corporate investments of this country bear to the whole taxable property of the Union. There are $7,000,000,000 invested in railroads alone, and the whole taxable property of the country is only $17,000,000,000. These are grave statements for intelligent citizens of every political faith to consider, and it is not wonderful that, with such a steady and rapid drift to land-monopoly and concentrated corporate wealth, there is deep and wide spread concern among the productive classes of the land.

The extracts we give from Curtin's incisive and exhaustive review of the issue of land-monopoly and homes for the people, willl increase the already general interest felt in the question. They must crystalize public sentiment strongly against the tendency of the last decade that has moved on in stealthy tread, until we find an immense public domain monopolized by corporations and largely by alien investors to the exclusion of actual settlers. This issue goes to the very safety as well as to the prosperity of the Republic. It is in the homes of the land that the safety of free government rests; and when land-monopoly and imported contract labor come in powerful alliance to hinder and paralyze the industry that makes homes and creates the wealth of the nation, it is time for all to take pause and halt the evil day before it dawns upon the best and happiest people of the earth.—Times.

Chairman Jones Serves Notice on Office Holders to Contribute Money.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The following circular is issued from the headquarters of the republican national committee in this city:

"Dear Sir: The pending presidential campaign is of unusual importance to the country. Every republican is deeply interested in its result. The national committee, on behalf of the republican party, desires to make it vigorous and effective and success certain in November. Funds are required, however, to meet the lawful and proper expenses of the campaign, and to provide the same, the committee finds itself dependent upon the liberality of republicans to make such voluntarly contributions as their means will permit and as they feel inclined to give. You are therefore respectfully invited to send as soon as you conveniently may by draft on New York or postal money order to order of B. F. Jones, chairman republican national committee, 242 Fifth avenue, New York city, such sum as you may desire to contribute for the objects before mentioned. A receipt for the same will be sent by return mail. The committee cheerfully calls the attention of every person holding any office, or any of the departments of the government to the provisions of the act of congress entitled 'An act to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States,' approved January 16, 1883, and states that its influence will be exerted in conformity therewith.

"Respectfully, B. F. JONES,
"Chairman."

A Card from Mr. Alexander.

To the Democrats of Centre County:

Having learned that my name has been mentioned both by personal friends and political foes as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for the lower house of the Legislature, and as many friends are asking me every day what I desire in this regard, I deem it right that all Democrats should be informed as to my position.

It has been a life-long custom (not, however, without exception) to give members of the Legislature at least two terms. B. F. Hunter and Henry Meyer were duly elected by the Democrats in 1882. They have served but one term. Why should they not be returned? I have watched their record carefully, and I see nothing in it that ought to exclude them or either of them from a re-election. Yet it is reported to me that there is a general desire among Democrats that new men should be taken at this time in order to insure success. I do not believe it necessary to insure success. If they receive the nomination every Democrat will or should vote for them according to the usages of the party unless he can assign some better reason for not doing so than I have yet heard. But a number of new men are in the field (see announcements in the paper), and I have been urged to be one of them. To this request I have uniformly replied that I did not want the office. I have served two terms in the House of Representatives and two sessions in the Senate of the State. I did the best I could to serve the people, and yet I have found a number who, without understanding the questions, find fault with my course. I could not serve everybody according to their diversified views on public questions. Two years ago, according to the custom of the party, I was entitled to and did receive a renomination for a second term in the State Senate, but a combination was made against me which I saw would require more effort to overcome than the honor or the profits of the place would justify, and hence I declined a nomination fairly made, and left the field open to those who opposed me. Now I say to my friends that I have no political debts to pay. Those who opposed my just and fair nomination I shall not in any manner oppose. As for myself, I do not seek the office.

I believe in the old-time principle that the office should seek the man and not the man the office. This is the only way to prevent a recurrence of the factional quarrels within the party—with which it is again threatened. The system of electioneering for positions of public trust is pernicious and destructive to the welfare of the party as well as the public service. The people should select the best men for the place regardless of the importunities of candidates or their friends.

The next session of the Legislature will be an important one; Legislative, Senatorial and Congressional apportionment bills must be passed. Where will Centre county be placed in these several laws? None but men of experience in legislation should be placed on guard of these interests.

As I have said, I do not seek the office, and if I did time and inclination and principle would prevent me making a canvass of the county. But if the party in its wisdom thinks that I can serve it best, I will feel it my duty to accept the trust.

Your obedient servant,
C. T. ALEXANDER.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 28, 1884.

In the week that has passed since the National Convention adjourned, there has been opportunity to consider its work and estimate the strength of the ticket nominated. It is pretty good evidence that no mistake has been made to find that satisfaction increases daily and that if the convention were to be held over again no change would be made. There is a happy and confident feeling among the Democrats of the Capital. Washington is an excellent place to judge the pulse of the nation, because people and politicians of all classes are constantly coming here and the changes in public sentiment are carefully watched by the office-holding population. So far there does not appear to be a solitary crumb of comfort for this class, and they are pretty generally making up their minds that a day of judgment for them is close at hand. They have been pinning considerable faith to John Kelly, but present advices indicate that he could not save them if he would for according to all accounts the revolt among Republicans, even in the interior counties of New York, is greater than the greatest strength Kelly could under any circumstances command. Furthermore Kelly won't bolt.

It is interesting to talk with these excited office-holders and see how nervous they are. It makes them the more wretched because there is so little ground upon which to attack the Democratic ticket and platform, while their own are so effectively assailed. Gov. Cleveland's limited experience in office-holding is about the only argument advanced. The sum total of his public service is as Mayor of Buffalo and Governor of New York, says a local Blaine organ. But what rubbish and cant that all is! Take the Presidents forced upon the country for the last sixteen years, and how many of them have had as much qualifying experience? Gen. Grant had absolutely no knowledge of the civil service or of business, yet they gave him two terms and wanted him for a third. Mr. Hayes, who was the smallest man intellectually and backboneically ever placed in such a position, had simply been Governor of Ohio. Yet notwithstanding the great crime by which he was smuggled into the office, his administration was the cleanest the Republican party has given the country. Then there is Chester A. Arthur whose sole public experience before he became president had been as a ward politician, and collector of the port of New York. Yet Republican journals and Republican Conventions have been for some time past holding him up as the model President.

So the experience argument falls. Any man who has capacito and administrative ability, and above all firmness and honesty of character and purpose can creditably fill the office of President. Governor Cleveland has all these qualifications and he has been Mayor of the city of Buffalo, where he studied and mastered the great and trying question of municipal government, under circumstances of difficulties. He has also filled with honor to himself and satisfaction to the people the office of Governor of the largest State in the Union—a position the executive requirements of which are second only to those of the Presidency. The trouble with the Republican candidate is that he has had too much 'experience' and is too well known. If he were a clean man, fresh from the people, and clear of his political record as well as entangling and disgraceful associations of his debauched career, his chances of election would not be so utterly hopeless as they are to-day. —We hear from all parts of the country that the crops of wheat are extraordinarily large. This should surely be abundant reason to give praise and thanks to our kind and providing Creator for the many blessings bestowed upon us.

—A four year old daughter of Chas. Hosterman, dec'd, living with her grandfather, John Geistwite in Haines township, fell under a loaded wagon the other day. The wheel passed over the leg above the knee, crushing the bone very badly.

—A cheap way to advertise your business is to correspond to a local newspaper and mention your business in almost every item contained in the communication. Beside that it forms pleasant (?) reading matter for that paper's subscribers.

—Mr. Jacob Holloway Crouse, of Aaronsbueg, was married last Thursday evening to a Miss Geistwite of Woodward and as usual the boys did not fail to give him the usual calathumpian serenade, and not only him but everybody else in town.

—The Evangelical campmeeting will be held this year in Mr. Jacob Gephart's woods, north of Millheim, commencing on the 21st of August and continue for one week. It will be conducted by Rev. J. M. Ettinger, the accomplished Elder of the Ev. association.

—Miss Rose E. Harter of Rebersburg, Pa. requests us to announce that she will open a term of summer school on Monday, the 28th inst. Parents should make a note of this and embrace the opportunity to give their children a profitable course of instructions.

—The corner stone laying of the new Reformed church at Aaronsburg, will take place on Sunday Aug. 10th. Several ministers from a distance are expected. Services will be held in the house of worship. A cordial invitation to attend is extended to the public.

—Messrs. Geo. Buck & Bro. our excellent photographers, inform the public that their new gallery on North Street, of which they took possession this week, will be closed from next Tuesday until Tuesday following, in order to complete the necessary arrangements in the interior of the building. On Wednesday August 6th they expect to open their new and splendid rooms, and invite their many customers to come and give them a call.

—SCHOOL TAX NOTICE.—The undersigned hereby give notice to delinquent tax payers to remit their school tax for the borough of Millheim of the year 1883, within 10 days from date, otherwise it will be collected according to law.

JACOB GEPHART, Treas. for 1883.
G. W. STOVER, Jr, Collector.

70 ACRE FARM FOR SALE.—Benjamin and John J. Orndorf, administrators of the estate of the late John Orndorf, will offer the farm of the decedent, situate in Haines township, at Orphans' Court Sale, on Saturday, August 2nd, 1884. Good buildings, &c. on the premises. See bills.

MUSIC SCHOOL.—The 25th session of six weeks will begin in the Musical College, at Freeburg, Pa., on Tuesday morning, July 29th. A grand opportunity for the training of young ladies. For information and circulars, address.

F. C. MOYER,
Musical Director.

—The Rebersburg band is having a picnic and festival in Kreamer's grove, 1 mile south of Rebersburg, next Saturday. Extensive preparations have been made to make the occasion a success. The Millheim band has accepted an invitation to attend, and a large crowd of people are expected to be present and enjoy a day in the shady woods.

LADIES' MEDICAL ADVISER.—A complete Medical Work for Women, handsomely bound in cloth and illustrated; postpaid for 10 two-cent stamps. Tells how to prevent and cure all diseases of the sex, by a treatment at home. Worth its weight in Gold to every lady suffering from any of these diseases. Over 10.000 sold already. Address NUNDA PUBLISHING Co., Nunda, N. Y. 28-3m.

—On last Thursday a distressing accident befell George Yearick, a son of Peter Yearick, of near Madisonburg The young man was in the act of binding a load of hay with a spring pole and when he pulled the pole down at the rear end of the wagon, it broke, throwing him on the threshing floor with great force. His wrist was dislocated and his arm fractured about two inches above the broken wrist, besides receiving some other injuries of less consequence.

—Gen. B. Fisher, of Philadelphia, who is a son of Rev. Peter Fisher, well remembered by many of the older citizens of Penns Valley, will deliver a lecture in Aaronsburg on the evening of the 2nd of August for the benefit of the Ladies' Mite Society of the Reformed church of that place. The subject of his address will be "Life in Libby Prison and the escape there from."

CORNER STONE LAYING. — The corner stone of the new Evangelical church at Millheim will be laid with appropriate services on Sunday, July 27th. The officating minister will be the Rev. Bishop J. J. Esher, from Chicago, Ill., who is likewise the senior bishop of the Evangelical Association, a man of deep piety and a theologian of high rank. He will preach at 10 A. M. in the German language and at 2½ P. M. English. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to ministers and people of the adjacent charges.

BENJ. HENGST,
Pre acher in charge.

—Mr. W. B. DeLong, of Jersey Shore, Pa., is at present stopping at the Millheim Hotel, and is taking orders for the fall delivery of the Rochester nursery stock. He delivers everything at the residence of the purchaser and also makes a specialty of flowers and ornamental trees. This being the first of a series of trips which he expects to continue for four years he wishes by honest dealing to merit a share of the public patronage. 3t

—Col. D. H. Hastings and wife, Mr. H. K. Hicks and wife, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Jas. Hastings of Philadelphia registered at the Millheim Hotel last Saturday evening. They started on the morning of said day for a pleasure trip to Penn's cave and after having explored that wonderful piece of nature concluded to give our burg a visit. They were pleased with Millheim and its people and spent the night in town, returning to Bellefonte on Sunday afternoon. A few minutes conversation with the party showed us that they were charmed with the beauty and sublimity of nature, upon which their eyes had been feasted on their drive through the valley. We hope the Col. and company will repeat their visit to Millheim frequently.

—IT WENT AROUND AMONG THE NEIGHBORS. Mr. Levi Stahl, merchant and postmaster at Fostoria, Pa., writes:

Mr. J. A. McDonald, Reedsville Pa.

Dear Sir:—Some time ago I had a severe attack of chronic diarrhœa. Could obtain no relief. A friend gave me a part of a bottle of your Curtis' Camelite Cordial, and a few doses entirely cured me. The balance of the bottle went around among the neighbors. Since that I have written to New York and Philadelphia for the medicine but could not procure it. I traced up the bottle we had and found it was purchased of Mr. Jacob Ocwan, merchant in Altoona, and from him obtained your address. Please forward me one dozen bottles by express at once, as I do not wish to be without it in my family and wish to sell it in my store."

Single bottle Curtis' Carmelite Cordial guaranteed to cure any case cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, cramps, pains, and all irritation of the bowels incident to change of climate, diet or water.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Mr. John Weight, an aged farmer, residing on a Mr. Gordon's farm, near Zion, this county, met with an accident last Monday afternoon which resulted in his untimely death. He had several horses on the threshing floor of his barn for the purpose of tramping out some rakings and when he gave of the younger horses a slight tap with a fork, the animal delt him a severe kick, the effects of which caused his death within two hours. Mr. Wight in former years was a resident of Penn township, and no doubt is well known by many of our readers.

—GOOD FOR MALARIA. E. James, Thompsontown, Pa., writes:

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN OBSERVES—That the writer of the "Millheim News" in last week's Centre Democrat must have been blindfolded on the fourth of July, judging from his statement that only one house in town was decorated on that day.

That Cleveland and Hendricks will poll a bigger vote in this place, than ever the Democrats polled before and that they will triumphantly elect their ticket.

That while the citizens may not have given a cent for the celebration here on the Fourth, they patronize the JOURNAL, when they want any printing done.

That the Musser fishing excursion on last Thursday was rather a failure.

That the pleasant faces of several traveling men were seen at the Millheim Hotel where they registered last week.

That if the Dutch were to take Millheim, the author of the "Millheim News" would get badly left.

That we ought to have telephonic connection with our county seat.

That the farmers are all happy over a a fruitful harvest.

That the band boys are improving finely.

That we ought to have an afternoon mail from Lewisburg.

That the people of Millheim are as generous as can be.

That the JOURNAL meets with favor wherever it is read.

That the Centre Democrat correspondent at this place thought he was getting a huge joke on somebody when he said that "The retired merchants are selling old clothes." Who does he mean? Certainly not Mr. Snook, nor Kauffmans, nor Harter, nor H. H. Tomlinson, for he is in no business at all now. He can not mean Mr. Tobias for he is only managing the business for Hood, Bonbright & Co. of Philadelphia. Be more plain the next time.

Rebersburg Locals.

Rev. William Hockman, a former resident of this place, now residing in Michigan, is here visiting his friends.

C. C. Zeigler, who lately graduated with honors at Harvard University, has again returned home for the summer, after which he proposes to make a prospecting tour in Germany.

'Squire Carlin purchased a fine, black horse from Daniel Gentzel of Penns Valley.

Cal. Harper was here shaking hands with his political friends.

Mr. Geo. Weaver killed a rattlesnake, with eleven rattles, on the mountain south of Wolfe's store.

The Rebersburg Normal School under the instructions of Prof. H. H. Weber commenced last Monday. Many students from a distance are expected. Prof. Weber is an experienced teacher.

Commisioner Daniel Morris, from Logansville, favored our town with a call.

Harry Conser is here on a visit.

Our school directors procured patent desks for the school house occupied by Prof. Weber. A new building is next in order.

Our band will have a picnic and festival in Kreamer's grove, south of Rebersburg, on Saturday, July 26th. Several other bands will be present to enliven the occasion. All are invited to attend. BOZ.

Madisonburg Scraps.

L. B. Shafer is making preparations to weatherboard his house and build a porch.

Miss Lizzie Shull and Miss Ellen Walizer, of Millheim, were the guests of Mrs. Sue Rishel on Saturday and Sunday.

Elias Miller improved his farm house, two miles east of this place with a coat of paint.

Michael Miller has used a self-binding reaper this season. It does the work very well, but most of his neighbors can't see any economy in it. Mr. Miller had five horses in his reaper every day he used it.

William N.—the next time be sure you are after your own cow and don't run David Ertel's all over town.

William W. had better get his new teeth. He could keep things in a better shape then.

David Ertel and John H. Showers are running a steam thresher for Mr. Krumrine of Spring Mills.

J. L. Roush spent last week at home. He had been in Clearfield selling books.

J. L. is a tip-top fellow but when he goes for the cows he looks so much over the left shoulder. SHIN BONE.

BARGAIN STORE.—Just received a full supply of Green Groceries such as water melons, cucumbers, apples, tomatoes, cabbage, &c. Also a fine selection of Boots and Shoes. We are selling off prints at cost in order to make room for our fall stock.

Very respectfully Yours,
D. S. KAUFFMAN & Co.

The farmers around here are done harvesting and have all their grain safely housed. They have been blessed with a good crop.

We'll all go to the festival at Aaronson Saturday, for the benefit of the Reformed Church.

We had a little racket in town the other evening. A little of "Eby's Best" was connected with it. Wm. O. took the belt from our former Sullivan and now the laurels of prize fighter adorn his brow, while John B. takes the second place as Jim Mace.

On Sunday Mr. Benjamin Benner's house caught fire; but little damage was done, the excitement being greater than the fire.

The silver wedding, announced in last week's ITEMS, was not as tony as predicted. They took the back road along the mountains to avoid the rope which had been streched for their benefit. BRACE up the next time and face the music.

About nine o'clock on Saturday morning the little folks of Woodward began to gather in the woods for a picnic. By all reports they had a jolly time, which will long be remembered.

I hear S. T. Frain of Millheim is going to have a picnic of his own near Millheim. Don't know whether Woodward will turn out or not.

PICKINGS.

The provident housewife who put up a large store of grapes can, even now, change her canned ones into excellent spiced grapes. Turn them from the can into a porcelain kettle or a preserving kettle of any kind; add spices and vinegar to suit your taste; boil from twenty minutes to half on hour. Cinnamon, allspice, and cloves are the best adapted for flavoring.

Four steps are regarded by Dr. B. W. Richardson as all-important for the advancement of national health, viz: The physical purification of the general public, the radical suppression of diseases which arise by communication of the affected with the unaffected the promotion of knowledge and thrift and adequate provision for food and drink among the masses, and lastly the encouragement of unity and organization in sanitary administration.

A Woman With a Mission.

Rev. C. H. Spurgeon says: I have heard that a woman who had "a mission" makes a poor wife or a bad mother; this is very possible and at the same time very lamentable; but the mission I urge is not all of this sort. Dirty rooms, slatternly gowns, and children with unwashed faces are swift witnesses against the sincerity of those who keep other vineyards and neglect their own. I have no faith in that woman who talks of grace and glory abroad and uses no soap at home.

For His Boy's Sake.

A Beautiful Incident Connected With the Great War.

What marvelous power lies behind these simple words. "For mother's sake," "For my boy's sake" "For the sake" of some loved one, what noble deeds have been wrought! what perils and dangers shunned! The following incident illustrates the potent influence of this phrase:

The office door opened softly, and a stranger in poor, soiled soldier's clothes walked in. The man who sat at the desk was a lawyer, a judge—and he was very busy over the papers of a pending suit. It was in the days of the civil war.

The stranger had born his share of the suffering that was in the land. He had been wounded in battle, and weak and emaciated, he was on his way back to his native state and town.

But the busy judge scarcely raised his eyes to look at him. The poor soldier had taken off his cap, and stood, feeling confusedly in his pockets.

"I have—I did have a letter for you."

The judge took no notice of the timid, hesitating words. He was very busy, and he was conscious of a feeling of annoyance that a stranger should break in upon his time.

The confused, nervous search in the pockets continued, and the judge grew still more annoyed. He was a human man, but he had responded to many soldier's applications already and he was very busy just now.

The stranger came nearer and reached out a thin hand. A letter, grimy and pocket-worn, lay on the desk, addressed to the judge.

"I have no time to attend to such"—but the impatient sentence was checked on the good man's lips. The handwriting on the letter was the handwriting of his son. He opened the letter and read:

"DEAR FATHER.—The bearer of this is a soldier discharged from the hospital. He is going home to die. Assist him in any way you can, for Charlie's sake."

And then Judge A——forgot how very busy he was. His heart went out towards the poor, sick soldier, and for "Charlie's sake," his own soldier-boy far away, he loaded him with gifts and acts of kindness, and lodged him till he could send him on his way rejoicing.

A Wonderful Stomach.

A Man Who Beats Police Officer French of Elmira.

There is a man at Madison, Ind., by the name of O'Donnell, who has a stomach that must be lined with fire-bricks. The endeavor of Walcott of New York to eat quails has revived reminiscences of O'Donnell's exploits, and they are summarized as follows:

In the fall of 1879, on a wager, he ate thirty quails in thirty consecutive days.

At a subsequent date he ate, in thirty consecutive days, double the number of quails—sixty.

On April 5, 1881, he ate twenty-four goose-eggs in 15:20 seconds.

On April 20, 1881, he devoured two mince pies in an incredibly time. washing them down with eight drops of croton oil.

On July 4, 1881, at a public celebration in the park, in twenty minutes by the watch, he ate a cooked goose, weighing eleven pounds and ten onnces, including the stuffing, and then demanded his dinner.

In the fall of 1881 he drank a half-pint of castor oil on a wager.

On another occasion, the Scientific American having, as O'Donnell says, stated it to be impossible for a man to eat a dozen oysters in sugar, he tested the matter, and very easily got away with three dozen sugared oysters at one short sitting.

One day last week, on a wager, the loser to pay the bill, he ate five cans of sardines in ten minutes, and asked for more.

O'Donnell is a hale, hearty man, of good disposition, unmarried, of Irish parentage, and is about forty years of age. It is fortunate that Mr. O'Donnell is unmarried, as he might wake up some night and eat up his wife's corsets hoopskirts and other nourishing paraphernalia which usually accompany a fine-looking woman.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic an Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent. profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents, and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every houseowner, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $300 a month clear, and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or General Agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days, and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more that double the amount we guarranteed, and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to every one out of employment who will send us three one-cent stamps for postage Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will loose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.
N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR
For the cure of
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
CONSUMPTION
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.
Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.
The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.
BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.
DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
